SHANGHAI PREPARES FOR INVASION

TURNED INTO ARMED
CAMP AS SOLDIERS
PLAN RESISTANCE

Efforts To Prevent Trouble Continue;
Japanese Move

SHANGHAI, Jan. 27.—The city of Shanghai, cosmopolitan metropolis of the Far East, prepared tonight for invasion by Japanese troops.

In the hope of avoiding provocation, squads of coolies were sent through the city to tear down anti-Japanese posters from the walls, but at the same time thousands of crack Chinese troops, equipped with machine guns and heavy artillery, were being moved into the native city to offer resistance in the event of actual hostilities.

All railway rolling stock was shunted outside the city limits to prevent seizure by the Japanese. It was estimated 17,000 crack troops were concentrated in the Shanghai area, while deep trenches and high barricades, fortified by a network of barbed-wire entanglements, added to the warlike aspect of the city.

The Japanese, meanwhile, began evacuating their women and children from the Chinese area and moving them into the safety of the international settlement. Only able-bodied men were left outside the settlement.

Japan was expected to take some sort of military action tomorrow after the arrival of more warships from Tokyo. She was determined to move drastically even in the event of the Chinese mayor's acceptance of her demands for suppression of anti-Japanese activities.

China also was ready. In opposition to certain political factors, military authorities had massed 17,000 crack troops in the Shanghai area, had dug trenches, erected barricades, and laid barbed wire entanglements for a strong defense of their city.

A curfew was declared throughout Chinese sections forbidding residents to venture on the street during the night.

FOOCHOW, CHINA, Jan. 27.—Japanese women and children today began to evacuate Foochow, fearing Chinese reprisals in the event Japan should take aggressive action in Shanghai.

GENEVA, Jan. 27.—A new League of Nations plan to satisfy China over the Manchurian situation was to be considered at a special meeting of the council at 4:00 p.m. It was announced today.

The plan called for an official declaration by the Japanese admitting their occupation of Manchuria does not affect Chinese sovereignty. The proposal aimed at soothing Chinese public opinion.

Meanwhile other private negotiations continued to bring Japan and China to peaceful terms over Manchuria.

Although the League's Manchurian investigation committee was scheduled to leave Geneva February first, no decision had been made regarding the line to be used by the committee. All competitive bids by steamship companies had not been received.

$50,000 FOR RELEASE

Wealthy South Bend Citizen Seized On Way
From Party

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 27.—Torn away from his wife as the couple was returning from a gay theater party, Howard Woolverton, wealthy manufacturer, was today in the hands of a gang of kidnapers who demand $50,000 for his release.

The ransom demand was contained in a note left with Mrs. Woolverton when her husband was taken away from her by the abductors.

The manufacturer and his wife were driving homeward when the kidnap band, riding in a big automobile, swerved in front of the Woolverton car, forcing it to a stop.

One of the kidnapers, Mrs. Woolverton related to police, leaped into their automobile and at the point of a gun directed the manufacturer to drive to a lonely spot eight miles north of the city.

Reaching the isolated roadside, both automobiles came to a stop. The kidnapers seized Woolverton and forced him into their car. Before driving away they left the ransom note with Mrs. Woolverton who immediately drove back to the city and reported the abduction to the police.

The note left with Mrs. Woolverton threatened her husband with death, unless its terms are complied with.

AMUSING INCIDENTS OF YACHT RACE TO SPAIN TOLD BY GREINER AT LEGION MEET

By S. V. COX

The first thing we're going to ask E. E. Greiner of Springfield, candidate for the Republican nomination for congress if we ever meet him at midnight near a cemetery, is if he seen a one eyed cook lately.

Mr. Greiner came to Greene County Tuesday night to talk before the Fairfield-Osborn post of the American Legion. He arrived unattended, explaining that he simply came as a member of the Legion to talk to them informally. His talk was of non-political nature and included an entertaining explanation of how he came to make a trip across the Atlantic in a small yacht as part of a race to Spain. A few days out at sea they found, Mr. Greiner said, that every chronometer on the yacht was out of order and then the radio blew up, making it impossible to check their positions.

Despite this handicap the yacht reached Spain through fair weather and foul, first touching at Santander, where Mr. Greiner left the ship to travel on land and notify his family of his welfare. With

Mr. Greiner on the yacht, he had explained, was a Senor Caregio, major-domo of the king's household.

"This is quite an honor in Spain I soon found out after landing, the major-domo presiding at all functions in the absence of the king," he said. From the moment he set foot upon the shores of Spain until he left it for France, Mr. Greiner was treated like visiting royalty.

In humorous vein, with the majority of the jokes on himself, Mr. Greiner told of his stay in Spain, his attendance at the banquets of the fifteen dukes forming the king's household and of his attendance with others at a Spanish bullfight.

At the end of his stay in Spain, Mr. Greiner told of giving a banquet for the fifteen dukes and various others entitled to a place at the board on such an occasion and of his worry as to whether he was going to have enough money in good American cash to pay for it, not having established any credit in Spain.

Time for the banquet came and it was served. There were seven

FARMER WANTS FAIR BREAK FARM BUREAU TOLD AT MEETING HERE

Seeks Only Equality Says Legislative Director; Tax Burden Chief Worry Of Farmer, Is Said; Directors Elected

"The farmer wants a fair break—economic equality with other industries," This was the declaration of T. J. Bath, legislative director and daily radio speaker of the Ohio Farm Bureau, speaking before 300 farmers at the annual meeting of the Greene County Farm Bureau Tuesday. Mr. Bath stressed the point that the farmer does not want unfair advantages, but simply the same advantages that other classes have.

His biggest burden, perhaps, is the tax burden, he said. "Government costs are at the base of most of our tax increases. That doesn't mean that government costs have gone up so much as that we have demanded more and more of our government. In the period from 1915 to 1927, total tax increases of all states showed that 40% of the increases were for increased school expenditures alone and 20% due to road expenditures. That accounts for 60% of the increases."

"In Ohio in twenty years, taxes grew eight times faster than the population and our public debts grew ten times faster."

"Here's why taxation hits the farmer particularly hard. From 25 to 30% of the property has paid from 70 to 75% of all taxes because real estate has, since the start, been the basis of taxation and has been most readily accessible. The farmer's chief possession is real estate. All other heavy owners of real estate are penalized as well, but this explains the farmer's kick and his demand for relief.

"The farmer gets only 14% of the national income and pays 27% of his net income for taxes. Others get 82% of the national income and pay only eight per cent out for taxes."

Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois and a farmer in that state, gives even more startling figures in this connection.

Mr. Lowden says that the agricultural population is 25 per cent of the total, gets 10 per cent of the income and pays 30 per cent in taxes, while others constituting 75 per cent of the total population get 90 per cent of the income and pay 10 per cent of the taxes.

One reason for the farmer's bad economic situation at present is the wide discrepancy between the cost of what he buys and the price of what he produces.

The United States Department of Agriculture, using the period of 1909 to 1914 as a normal period with an index of 100, gives the following figures. Wholesale prices of all products in the United States including agriculture, 100.

Farm Wages 120

Farm Purchases (including what the farmer buys and uses) 125

Farm Taxes 250

Farm Products 70

"To relieve this situation as we can, we have surrounded real estate with certain tax safeguards.

The debt law (no debts for long) bond issue safeguards; increased percentages to pay special levies;

the 15 mill limit except by vote; budget laws; reduced valuations which with the fifteen mill limit are effective since values have been brought about $400,000,000 equaling about $800,000,000 less in taxes. And finally, the new tax law which the Farm Bureau helped to adopt. As a result of this law, Ohio property owners will pay taxes in 1932 on $319,000,000 less property than in 1931. At the average rate of .018

FORMER PROMINENT REPUBLICAN HELD ON FRAUD CHARGES

Williamson Pleads Not Guilty To Indictment

LIMA, O., Jan. 27.—Indicted with John H. Williamson, 55, of Findlay, former chairman of the Hancock County Republican executive committee, on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses, Alvin C. Jones, former Republican city councilman at Toledo, was expected to appear for arraignment today.

Williamson, who is also a former inspector for the Ohio real estate board, was arraigned yesterday following his indictment by the

Allen County Grand Jury. He pleaded not guilty before Judge E. Everett and was released under $500 bond.

Charges against Williamson and Jones were outright of an attempt to secure the release from the Ohio penitentiary of Lloyd Ezick, under a twenty year sentence for criminal assault.

The grand jury indictment charged they accepted money from Mrs. Nettie Williams of Lima, sister of Ezick.

Following on the heels of charges recently made before the Senate welfare investigating committee by Miss Leona Marie Esch, secretary of the Cleveland Association for Criminal Justice, that money was used improperly to obtain the release of certain Ohio penitentiary convicts, the indictments against Williamson and Jones caused a sensation here.

Williamson admitted receiving

$90 from Mrs. Williams, according to Sheriff Orville Willford, but declared that the money was for expenses and fees. He asserted when he planned to return the money when he failed to secure a commutation of the prisoner's sentence so he would be eligible for parole, Sherif ff Willford said.

NAVY IS EXERCISING REAL ECONOMY SAYS SECRETARY IN XENIA

ATTEMPT RESCUE OF BRITISH VESSEL BY DIVERS IN CHANNEL

Long Hours Lost In Locating Craft; Cause Unknown

(BULLETIN)

WEYMOUTH, Dorsetshire, Eng., Jan. 27.—The rescue vessel Adamant wirelessed this afternoon that it had located the missing submarine M-2 and was sending down divers.

WEYMOUTH, Eng., Jan. 27.—Hope for the safety of fifty-four men aboard the missing British submarine M-2 began to fade today as a desperately working naval rescue fleet failed to locate the craft in the English Channel in which she descended yesterday morning, not to be heard from since.

While a sudden strong wind arose and delayed divers' operations in descending to the metallic object located three miles west of Portland Bill (Cape), it was evident that naval authorities put less and less faith in the first eager belief that this was the missing submarine.

Submarines, airplanes, and minesweepers all joined in an extensive search of the waters between Weymouth and Bridport, near where the M-2 went down in diving exercises at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Naval authorities did not have a single clue as to what may have happened to the ship. Whatever it was, it was certain she was under water and that her men, if unharmed now, could live only between 48 and 56 hours after submersion, or until tomorrow night at the latest.

Thousands were gathered along the shore here awaiting news of the rescue operations. As the hours dragged by and as it was evident rescuers were concentrating on the object located off Portland Bill, the watchers grew uneasy. Women among them broke out crying.

No oil was noticed above the object to which divers were preparing to descend, and this was taken as a bad omen.

Two airplanes, equipped with special apparatus for sighting objects at the bottom of the sea, cruised over the bay. Two submarines cruising the area, sent out under-water signals which remained unanswered. Two mine sweepers dragged the channel bottom with steel hawsers.

Five-six hours was given as the limit of time for which the four officers and fifty men aboard could live with the newest type of air purification machinery with which the M-2 was fitted.

FOUR INDICTED FOR HONOLULU MURDER; WOMAN TRIED ALONE

Three Others Will Be Transferred To Naval Authorities

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 27.—A lone, Mrs. Grace Fortescue, eastern society leader, wife of Major Granville Fortescue, must face murder charges in a civil court of Honolulu.

The grand jury after three days' deliberations returned second degree murder indictments against Mrs. Fortescue, her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and two naval enlisted men, E. J. Lord and Albert Jones, charged with killing Joseph Kahahawai.

Kahahawai was one of five natives accused of criminally attacking Mrs. Thalia Massie, pretty 20-year-old bride of Lieut. Massie, and daughter of Mrs. Fortescue.

Return of the indictments paved the way for transfer of the case against Lieut. Massie, Jones and Lord, from civil authorities at Pearl Harbor, leaving Mrs. Fortescue to stand trial alone.

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 27.—Keenly disappointed that the grand jury had indicted the four Americans charged with killing a native, the white population of Honolulu remained calm today in the belief that all four defendants eventually would be acquitted.

COLUMBUS, O. Jan. 27.—A delay of several weeks will be necessary in plans of the Buckeye Sheriffs' Association for the installation of its state wide police radio system. Secretary Ophra Moore said today following a meeting of officials in this district.

Additional preparation will be required before the first station can be established at Dayton. Other broadcasting links there are to be set up at Canton, Columbus, Findlay and Marietta. Under original plans, the Dayton station would have been opened early this year.

BROWNELL DIVORCE ACTION DISMISSED BY PLAINTIFF HERE

Dismissal of a suit for divorce instituted last August 25 by Mrs. Susan H. Brownell, Indian Ripple Road, against John R. Brownell, reputedly wealthy farmer, to whom she has been married thirty-one years, is revealed in an entry on file in Common Pleas Court.

The action was withdrawn by Mrs. Brownell, who had charged her husband with gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty, naming another woman as correspondent. One of the charges had been that Brownell, for the last three years, had failed to support his wife and three minor children in a manner proportionate to his means and in keeping with their station in life.

The couple was married in Montgomery County April 6, 1910, and has four children: Marie Jane, 20, now married; John R. Jr., 18, Susan Harrelle, 16, and Betty Ann, 14. The three youngest children reside with their mother on the 223-acre Brownell farm in Beavercreek Township.

By agreement of all parties concerned, another court entry discloses that the suit brought September 4 by Carrie J. Brownell against John R. and Sue Harshman Brownell, seeking to foreclose mortgages totalling $30,000 on the Brownell farm, had also been dismissed.

GETTING AHEAD (How Well Known Persons Achieved Success)

BY THE SUCCESS REPORTER

PETER B. KYNE
Noted Author of Adventure Stories and Novels

Released by Central Press Association

Question: What started you on the road which led you to success as a novelist?

Answer: I used to read other people's work, and it didn't seem that it would be difficult for me to do. As a boy I could always take refuge in a world of fancy. When I was 21 I attempted writing to while away long evenings, because I had no money to spend for any sort of entertainment, even for books. I got in the habit of looking at life as a story. Life's comedy and drama always appealed to me. Finally I began to realize that fiction writing was largely the art of depicting life as the majority of people would like to live it if they had the ordering of their own lives. So I began turning out stories that sold. And now I am a hopeless addict.

BROWNELL DIVORCE ACTION DISMISSED BY PLAINTIFF HERE

Dismissal of a suit for divorce instituted last August 25 by Mrs. Susan H. Brownell, Indian Riffle Road, against John R. Brownell, reputedly wealthy farmer, to whom she has been married thirty-one years, is revealed in an entry on file in Common Pleas Court.

The action was withdrawn by Mrs. Brownell, who had charged her husband with gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty, naming another woman as respondent. One of the charges had been that Brownell, for the last three years, had failed to support his wife and three minor children in a manner proportionate to his means and in keeping with their station in life.

The couple was married in Montgomery County April 6, 1910, and has four children, Mary Jane, 20, now married; John R. Jr., 18, Susan Harriett, 16, and Betty Ann, 14. The three youngest children reside with their mother on the 223-acre Brownell farm in Beavercreek Twp.

By agreement of all parties concerned, another court entry dismisses that the suit brought September 4 by Carrie J. Brownell against John R. and Sue Harshman Brownell, seeking to foreclose mortgages totalling $30,000 on the Brownell farm, had also been dismissed.

GETTING AHEAD (How Well Known Persons Achieved Success)

BY THE SUCCESS REPORTER

PETER B. KYNE
Noted Author of Adventure Stories and Novels
Released by Central Press Association

Question: What started you on the road which led you to success as a novelist?

Answer: I used to read other people's work, and it didn't seem that it would be difficult for me to do. As a boy I could always take refuge in a world of fancy. When I was 21 I attempted writing to while away long evenings, because I had no money to spend for any sort of entertainment, even for books. I got in the habit of looking at life as a story. Life's comedy and drama always appealed to me. Finally I began to realize that fiction writing was largely the art of depicting life as the majority of people would like to live it if they had the ordering of their own lives. So I began turning out stories that sold. And now I am a hopeless addict.

"How do they do it?"

Among your friends there's sure to be at least one smart young married couple who are the envy and admiration of all who know them.

With an income that is frankly abbreviated, and with no benevolent Aunts in the offing, they still have a home that is correct and comfortable in all its appointments, a home that is admired and copied by their friends.

"Yes, Jane is a remarkable little manager," will probably be the young husband's proud answer. And there is little doubt about it.

Take a look around that home and you will find no end of well-known advertised products. For Jane is an efficient little manager. She can't afford to take chances that must only be debited to "Experience." When she buys for her home she must get tried and tested and trusted products which carry an honorable name to guarantee her satisfaction.

You will find that Jane is a consistent reader of the advertisements. Are you?

FARMER LEAPS FROM WINDOW TO ESCAPE FIRE; HOUSE BURNS

Robert Raynor, farmer, residing on the Kemp Road, thirteen miles west of Xenia in Greene County, was forced to jump from a second story window Tuesday night at 9:30 o'clock when his home was completely destroyed by fire.

Mr. Raynor had been confined to his bed by illness several weeks and was the only member of the family at home when the fire was discovered as Mrs. Raynor and children were attending a social affair in the community.

An overheated stove in the kitchen is thought to have caused the fire. The flames spread rapidly through the downstairs rooms and were eating their way to the walls upstairs when Raynor smelled smoke and heard the crackling of burning wood. The flames were leaping up the staircase and Raynor was forced to jump from his bedroom window.

Neighbors formed a bucket brigade and protected adjacent buildings from burning. The Raynor home was entirely destroyed and the loss to the building and contents is estimated at $5,000.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

There is a sore evil which I have seen under the sun, namely, riches kept for the owners thereof to their hurt.—Ecclesiastes, v, 13.

ORDER YOUR SNOW

The shipment of eight carloads of snow 300 miles the other day may reveal to the optimistic a new industry. The snow business seems to have been overlooked. In this case there was a good order for it from a ski jump near Chicago. Olympic winners were billed to perform, a great crowd was expected, and not a flake of snow had fallen for a week. There was nothing to do but to go and buy some snow. A rush shipment was put through from northern Michigan. The transaction was nothing new for this jump. It has to buy snow at one time or another nearly every year.

The supply stretches merely to the north pole. All that is needed is a demand. If the commercial call for snow should broaden out, it would make a pretty little business. People who want their snow at the holiday season could then lay in their own private supply and tastefully decorate their front lawns with snow from the store. The mail order houses would carry it, and the 5 and 10-cent stores sell it in neat little packages. Snow would acquire a value by the yard, the pound, and if off the ice too long, by the gallon.

Should the business have a boom, it might see fast snow expresses, like the transcontinental silk trains, dashing south from Hudson Bay, pausing at the Gulf of Mexico for a return load of southern zephyrs and then shooting north again. The original breath of the sunny south might thereupon be retailed in the arctic circle at so much per cubic foot. Ridiculous as such a snow business may sound, it probably is less fantastic than the air mail would have appeared to the pony express rider.

AS PEOPLE WANT

In flatly declining to permit political matters involving his personal future to obtrude into the picture at the White House while he is occupied by pressing problems involving the welfare of the Country, President Hoover has, more than ever, made his renomination at Chicago a foregone conclusion, humanly speaking. Just as a less elevated stand, indicating a less single-hearted devotion to the duty nearest at hand, would have injured him in the estimation of the nation, so the attitude he has assumed emphasizes his value in the position he now holds. Mr. Hoover is conducting himself as the people of the United States expect a man of Presidential size to conduct himself.

Very probably the President realizes that in the end success in handling the affairs of the Country so that it will emerge cleanly from its economic difficulties will be of more aid to him in June at Chicago and in November at the polls than any amount of ordinary political fence fixing can possibly be. Undoubtedly he understands that if his administration succeeds in introducing the Nation to a new era of prosperous times no fence fixing will be needed, and that in the event of failure it will not help a great deal. Even so, it takes a person with largeness of soul and vision to grasp that sort of truth vividly enough to be content to depend upon it. There are an amazing number of men in public life today, some of them men who desperately want to be President, who are quite unable to see that far.

Reasons For Failure of Church

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN
Pastor of Madison Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church,
New York City

Ralph Washington Sockman was born at Mt. Vernon, O., Oct. 1, 1889. He is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan, and has received many honorary degrees. He was an intercollegiate secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in 1911, and in 1915 was associate minister of the Madison Avenue M. E. church in New York City. During the World War he served with the Y. M. C. A. He was president of the Federation of Churches and director of the Union Theological Seminary. He is now pastor of the Madison Avenue M. E. church. He has written several books on religion, some of which are "The Revival of the Conventional Life in the Church of England in the Nineteenth Century," "Suburbs of Christianity and Other Sermons" and "Men of the Mysteries."

The reason the church no longer appears to draw the best minds into its pulpits is the secondary consideration given to religion in modern society, the lack of idealism in the church and the seeming futility of much of its work.

The large city churches and our wealthy families seldom send any sons into the ministry. If it had not been for the small colleges and the rural districts, we would have enough ministers to man our pulpits today.

New York, for instance, raises her own political and social leaders, but not her religious leaders.

With many families religion becomes a real factor only in the crises of life such as birth, marriage and death. And as long as the church is the only custodian of the infrequent crises of life, it will hardly offer what looks like the challenge of a fulfilling job to energetic youth. No boys with independence of spirit desire to be merely a private chaplain to the privileged class—and that is what the preacher is expected to be in many a parish.

Parishioners take their sermons from the pulpit and their standards of action from Wall Street and congress. This ignoring of religion as a real factor in life is chiefly responsible for its failure to command the talents of our leading young people.

MY NEW YORK

By JAMES ASWELL

NEW YORK.—Manhattan tab-

The mousy little man in the ragged coat, tilting his camera far back in Lexington avenue to get a straight-up shot of the Chrysler building, and the crowds, as always, gaping up, too, to see what he will film.

Two cab drivers lounging in the tonneau of an ancient hack, arguing over the respective merits of Brooklyn and Manhattan as working fields, while a street urchin darts over from time to time to honk the horn, the drivers too comfortable and interested in their topic to protest.

The lady in the McCoy ermine coat, buying a tube of lipstick in the ten-cent store.

The realization that more appointments are kept and made after a glance at the clock atop the Paramount building than through any other time dial in town.

The lady in ermine fluttering along Park avenue at 10 o'clock on a cold evening, behind an immense police dog on a leash.

The lovers on the back seats of a Riverside drive bus, poorly dressed, holding hands and staring moodily at the sunset blaze along the Jersey shore.

The two old men bearing signs advertising rival restaurants, strolling along Forty-second street, chatting animatedly and with much laughter.

The poster bearing the likeness of Calvin Coolidge on a newspaper truck, damp with sleet and discolored so that Coolidge seems to have a beard and resemble Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister.

John Cobden, manager of the Beaux Arts apartments, demonstrating to a group of guests in evening attire the trick elongating bed for tall people he invented.

Bing Crosby entering an elevator backstage at the Paramount, startlingly ghostlike in his white suit and dead-white make-up. (And the reflection that the crowds of high school girls and romantic housewives who used to gather outside that theatre during Rudy Vallee's ascendancy, are notably absent.)

The overcoatless, shuddering old gentleman packing one of those old wooden signs along Broadway, advertising a trip to Miami via auto for $22 and making passersby feel like handing him the price of the journey.

The Second avenue elevated cars, crowded as always inexplicably with children bound for Long Island. Why?

Jean Harlow, alluringly glittering against a velvet back-drop, making a personal appearance—and declaring, in a mild, affected little voice that she is a "bad, bad woman on the stage—but it's only acting."

That book store in the Grand Central entrance, packing a crowd before the window with the most original and eye-grabbing displays of any book mart in town. ANSWER: There are many recipes for success. I believe that any dancer who would achieve success must possess as the crowning characteristic the ability to express the spiritual.

Agreeing perfectly on the facts, the two groups split wide open on the question of the proper course for the land banks to follow.

The humanitarian crowd, if we may give them that title, say that delinquent debtors should be treated leniently, and if they are unable to pay, they should receive a moratorium of a year or more. The important thing, they say, is to keep the farmer on his farm until times improve.

The hard-boiled crowd, on the other hand, declare that this is no time for half-baked sentiment. It is important, they say, to keep the farmer on his farm if possible, and reasonable leniency should be used in dealing with him. TWO POINTS OF VIEW TO BE TAKEN ON QUESTION OF FEDERAL BANKS

By ARTHUR H. JENKINS
Editor, The Farm Journal
Written for Central Press

There are two points of view in looking at the question of the federal land banks, and which view you take depends, I suppose, on the kind of person you are. It is that way with most things.

Both factions agree that farmers whose land is mortgaged to the land banks are having a harder time than usual to pay interest and the amortization charge on the loan. True, three out of four farmers are up to the minute on their payments. But something like 25 per cent of the borrowers are from one to 90 days behind on their payments, and this is far too high, and far above normal.

It is, to be sure, probably no higher than the general run of debtors, either farm or city, and perhaps not so high. But that is another matter.

Budgets For The Entire Family

By MRS. MARY MORTON

HEADINGS

Continuing the list of headings under which to list the household expenditures, under "Clothing" should be put a separate record for each member of the family, covering all materials, trimmings, paid labor, ready-made garments, accessories such as hair nets and pins, dry cleaning, pressing and repairing. Such items as thread and needles, buttons, lace, etc., should be divided among the individual members of the family, should be listed under a general clothing record.

HEALTH: This includes all expenditures for doctor, dentist, oculist, nurse, hospital, medicine, eyeglasses, surgical appliances, special treatments, and travel necessitated by ill health.

DEVELOPMENT: This heading has a number of divisions. First comes formal education, then expenses for school, including travel, board, lodging, tuition, special fees, books and supplies.

Second, developing matted. Newspapers, magazines, books, other than school text books, and technical literature.

Third, public welfare, including contributions to church, social service, educational and civic organizations, income taxes and all taxes other than those on house and lot, and on automobile.

Fourth, gifts to individuals outside the family.

Fifth, recreation, consisting of movies, theater, concerts, lectures, dues to social clubs, sheet music, phonograph records, radio supplies, athletic supplies, toys, pets, entertainments. If much entertaining is done, this may be a special heading. In some cases expenses of entertaining should be entered under "vocation," as explained later.

Now, all you fair maidens who have jobs, think twice before giving them up for a "thank you" job, when you don't even get the thank you. Now what I want to do is to be entitled to half of my husband's salary? How am I to get my share when he refuses to give it to me? What public officer can I consult about this matter, since I have not the money to consult a lawyer?

"DISILLUSIONED." I know of no law that will give you half of your husband's salary. Disillusioned. If he were to die, you would be entitled to one-third of his estate. If you divorce him

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

There is a sore evil which I have seen under the sun, namely, riches kept for the owners thereof to their hurt.—Ecclesiastes, v, 13.

ORDER YOUR SNOW

The shipment of eight carloads of snow 300 miles the other day may reveal to the optimists a new industry. The snow business seems to have been overlooked. In this case there was a good order for it from a ski jump near Chicago. Olympic winners were billed to perform, a great crowd was expected, and not a flake of snow had fallen for a week. There was nothing to do but to go and buy some snow. A rush shipment was put through from northern Michigan. The transaction was nothing new for this jump. It has to buy snow at one time or another nearly every year.

The supply stretches merely to the north pole. All that is needed is a demand. If the commercial call for snow should broaden out, it would make a pretty little business. People who want their snow at the holiday season could then lay in their own private supply and tastefully decorate their front lawns with snow from the store. The mall order houses would carry it, and the 5 and 10-cent stores sell it in neat little packages. Snow would acquire a value by the yard, the pound, and if off the ice too long, by the gallon.

Should the business have a boom, it might see fast snow expresses, like the transcontinental silk trains, dashing south from Hudson Bay, pausing at the Gulf of Mexico for a return load of southern zephyrs and then shooting north again. The original breath of the sunny south might thereupon be retailed in the arctic circle at $5 per cubic foot. Ridiculous as such a snow business may sound, it probably is less fantastic than the air mail would have appeared to the pony express rider.

AS PEOPLE WANT

In flatly declining to permit political matters involving his personal future to obtrude into the picture at the White House while he is occupied by pressing problems involving the welfare of the Country, President Hoover has, more than ever, made his renomination at Chicago a foregone conclusion, humanly speaking. Just as a less elevated stand, indicating a less single-hearted devotion to the duty nearest at hand, would have injured him in the estimation of the nation, so the attitude he has assumed emphasizes his value in the position he now holds. Mr. Hoover is conducting himself as the people of the United States expect a man of Presidential size to conduct himself.

Very probably the President realizes that in the end success in handling the affairs of the Country so that it will emerge cleanly from its economic difficulties will be of more aid to him in June at Chicago and in November at the polls than any amount of ordinary political fence fixing can possibly be. Undoubtedly he understands that if his administration succeeds in introducing the Nation to a new era of prosperous times no fence fixing will be needed, and that in the event of failure it will not help great deal. Even so, it takes a person with largeness of soul and vision to grasp that sort of truth vividly enough to be content to depend upon it. There are an amazing number of men in public life today, some of them men who desperately want to be President, who are quite unable to see that far.

Reasons For Failure of Church

Ralph Washington Sockman was born at Mt. Vernon, O., Oct. 1, 1889. He is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan, and has received many honorary degrees. He was an intercollegiate secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in 1911, and in 1915 was associate minister of the Madison Avenue M. E. church in New York City. During the World War he served with the Y. M. C. A. He was president of the Federation of Churches and director of the Union Theology Seminary. He is no pastor of the Madison Avenue M. E. church. He has written several books on religion, some of which are "The Revival of the Conventional Life in the Church of England in the Nineteenth Century," "Suburbs of Christianity and Other Sermons" and "Men of the Mysteries."

Parishioners take their sermons from the pulpit and their standards of action from Wall Street and congress. This ignoring of religion as a real factor in life is chiefly responsible for its failure to command the talents of our leading young people.

MY NEW YORK

By JAMES ASWELL

NEW YORK. — Manhattan tab-leaux, winter:

The mousy little man in the ragged coat, tilting his camera far back in Lexington avenue to get a straight-up shot of the Chrysler building, and the crowds, as always, gaping up, too, to see what he will film.

Two cab drivers lounging in the tonneau of an ancient hack, arguing over the respective merits of Brooklyn and Manhattan as working fields, while a street urchin darts over from time to time to honk the horn, the drivers too comfortable and interested in their topic to protest.

The lady in the McCoy ermine coat, buying a tube of lipstick in the ten-cent store.

The realization that more appointments are kept and made after a glance at the clock atop the Paramount building than through any other time dial in town.

The lady in ermine fluttering along Park avenue at 10 o'clock of a cold evening, behind an immense police dog on a leash.

The lovers on the back seats of a Riverside drive bus, poorly dressed, holding hands and staring moodily at the sunset blaze along the Jersey shore.

The two old men bearing signs advertising rival restaurants, strolling along Forty-second street, chatting amiably and with much laughter.

The poster bearing the likeness of Calvin Coolidge on a newspaper truck, damp with sleetly rain and discolored so that Coolidge seems to have a beard and resemble Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister.

John Cobden, manager of the Beaux Arts apartments, demonstrating to a group of guests in evening attire the trick elongating bed for tall people he invented.

Bing Crosby entering an elevator backstage at the Paramount, startlingly ghostlike in his white suit and dead-white make-up. (And the reflection that the crowds of high school girls and romantic housewives who used to gather outside that theatre during Rudy Vallee's ascendancy, are notably absent.)

The overcautious, shuddering old gentleman packing one of those big wooden signs along Broadway, advertising a trip to Miami via auto for $22 and making passersby feel like handing him the price of the journey.

The Second avenue elevated cars, crowded as always inexplicably with children bound for Long Island. Why?

Jean Harlow, alluringly glittering against a velvet back-drop, making a personal appearance—and declaring, in a mild, affected little voice that she is a "bad, bad woman on the stage—but it's only acting."

In this argument, which you will find going on in congress and throughout the land bank districts, both sides are very much in earnest. Both think they are right. One crowd thinks the others are soft-headed lunatics, and the other crowd thinks the first are cold-blooded snakes. That's the way it is with this queer old human race.

Little Girl Afraid of Her Shadow, Crying and Clinging.

Little Girl, Wait a While

A tiny girl who had not been walking long — and often fell and bumped her tender nose and cried and smiled and tried again — went walking with her mother in a world that was all new and exciting.

And when her mother wished to carry her she would not have it so. She wanted to walk "all by herself." She climbed stairs and crossed streets, clinging to her mother's hand and adored plants and gurgled at this and that and was very proud.

Until, in a park, she slipped from her mother and ran away. Ran out into a clear space, where the sun was shining warmly and where a little girl could feel very brave, indeed. Then, suddenly, she began to cry — made those frightened sounds that all mothers know. And ran here and there and stumbled and was pitifully afraid and stumbled back to where her mother was and hid her face in her mother's lap and sobbed and sobbed.

Some day, in the midst of an enormous woe, you'll look back to this day when you were just a little girl, afraid of her own shadow — and it'll be a great comfort to you . . . Just wait and see!

Water Effective Cold Remedy

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The value of water in treatment is not sufficiently appreciated even by most medical men.

We all have an exaggerated reverence for drugs. This is partly due to the mysteriousness with which they work. The little pill or the bright liquid is swallowed and it goes out of sight into that region concerning whose workings we know so little, and we feel it must be performing some especially powerful magic.

It is hard to persuade us that just putting a cloth wrung out of cool water on the abdomen will do anything very effective. Yet I have heard a prominent physician say that such an application, which is known as a Preissnitz bandage, will do much to relieve many forms of abdominal pain as a hypod

Ohio's college basketball teams are so numerous they always hog most of the spotlight, getting much of the attention and honor that would otherwise be bestowed upon scholastic quintets. Yet the high school youths continue their seasonal play, every thought being directed at the state championships in March.

The state tourney competition is where the scholastic eagles come into their own. This year the tournament finals will be staged at the Ohio State fairgrounds in Columbus on March 18 and 19. Prior to this six sectional events will be run off, eliminating the weaker contestants.

The semi-final competition in the Southwestern District will be preceded by various regional tournaments.

Xenia Central will compete in the preliminary round at Springfield March 4 and 5, along with Springfield, Bellefontaine, Greenville, Piqua, Sidney, Troy and Urbana, and none of these other schools in the Class A play should prove so much better than the Ewings.

At the same time the Montgomery County "A" schools, principally from Dayton, will battle it out in that city in the regional event.

The district semi-finals, to be played at Dayton March 11 and 12, at the fairgrounds coliseum, will bring together the schools left in the Class B play and the "A" survivors of the regional meets at Springfield, Dayton and at Cincinnati, where Hamilton and Butler County teams clash in the preliminary rounds.

Greene County's two representative Class B Court teams, those who finish first and second in the county tourney, will complete March 4 and 5 at Wilmington College, along with the champion quintets from Clinton, Fayette, Highland and Warren counties.

Two other schools from this county, the Xenia O. S. and S. O. Home and Osborn Bath Twp., not being in the county supervised group, will enter the tourney play at Springfield, to which Champaign, Clark, Logan and Shelby Counties will send their champion cage teams.

Were it not for the fact that there would be a general inclination to concede the championship to Charles Zell in advance, this department might be persuaded to father a movement for a first annual ping-pong tournament to decide the best pong-pong player in Xenia. In the event no method can be devised to bar Charlie from the competition, the above suggestion may be worthy of a second thought.

Resolutions adopted by the meeting were as follows: That the policies and work of the state highway department be under a by-partisan board; that a personal earned income tax with low rate exemption and a selective sales tax on luxuries and entertainment be passed to relieve the tax burden on the farm and home; that all public officials consider seriously the "Pay as you go plan for public improvements"; that the Rural Credit Act be amended to give an extension of time in which borrowing farmers may meet their amortization payments; favoring the appointment of a committee headed by the Farm Bureau representative of the various taxpaying interests of the county for the purpose of studying county, school, and local expenditures, comparing them with those of other counties and taxing districts similarly situated and recommending to taxing authorities ways and means of effecting substantial reductions in the expenditure of public funds; strongly urging in the best interests of agriculture in Greene County, that the county agricultural agent and the home demonstration agent receive the support of all the agricultural interests of the county, and that our extension agents actively assist in the development of the programs of the present farm organizations within the county; endorsing the resolutions adopted by the American and Ohio Farm Bureau Federation; that agriculture occupies such an important economic place in national affairs that it is justified in asking an allocation to it by the Federal Radio Commission of such wave length or lengths, cleared channels, and power, as are necessary permanently to preserve its rightful interests on the air; that the trespass and hunting license laws today regarding hunting are not sufficient to protect the farmer from damage, and favoring a trespass law that will penalize the trespasser who enters the lands of another without permission and a hunters' license law that will provide for more easy identification by use of a larger license tag; opposing any effort to remove the quail from the songbird list; favoring a reduction of interest rates commensurate with basic price levels; that the constitution of the Farm Bureau be amended in order that directors shall be elected for a period of two years.

Mr. Andrews had spent his entire life in Xenia and had been employed by the Xenia water department twenty-nine years. He retired several years ago. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jennie King Andrews, to whom he was married in 1911. Two sisters, Mrs. Carrie Washington, Xenia and Miss Mary Andrews, Detroit, Mich., also survive. His parents, four brothers and two sisters preceded him in death.

mills the tax saving amounts to approximately $5,700,000.

"However, there are further things that must be done to improve this situation and to that end we seek the following: An earned income tax for school purposes; luxury and amusement taxes for welfare and school; utility taxes including busses and trucks for road purposes. If these measures can be adopted and put into effect not only the farmer but every property owner in the state, rural or urban, will benefit."

President D. C. Bradfute, in his address, said that dues collections had been exceptionally good and that a higher percentage of the members carried on the roll were in good standing than at any time in the history of the organization. He urged that the membership take an active part in all the deliberations of the organization and to have that spirit of loyalty to the principal of organized activity and cooperation that will place farming on a par with other industries.

In the matter of taxation it was pointed out that the Farm Bureau has kept in close touch with the reappraisal of real estate, having assisted in the naming of a board of appraisers in each township, that a decrease of from 10 to 20 per cent in assessed values had been secured and that there had been no increase in tax rate so that the amount of taxes to be paid this year on farm lands will show a corresponding decrease.

In speaking of the new tax law enacted by the last legislature for which the Farm Bureau stood, Mr. Bradfute said that on the basis of figures submitted by various farmers throughout the county the savings under the new law have run from $9 to as much as $200, and that in every case there has been a saving.

Officials of the Farm Bureau have worked closely with county officials in an effort to get a general picture of the tax and budget situation in Greene County. County officials were commended for their work in giving the county an economical and efficient administration of tax funds, in accordance with what they believe to be the wishes of their constituents and the laws of Ohio. A thorough and comprehensive study by all groups of tax legislation and tax expenditure in the county and all of its subdivisions was recommended in order that further economies could be made.

In the matter of elections voters were urged to elect men of sound judgment, common sense and experience in the field of practical economics rather than on the basis of the many dead issues placed before the public. The organization has during the past year negotiated with the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. for reduced rates, better facilities, and county wide free service and already some of these services have been secured.

President Bradfute recommended that the Farm Bureau be incorporated. He said the extension service in Greene County is prepared to render invaluable assistance during these difficult times and urged that it receive the interest and support in the future that it had in the past.

Resolutions adopted by the meeting were as follows: That the policies and work of the state highway department be under a by-partisan board; that a personal earned income tax with low rate exemption and a selective sales tax on luxuries and entertainment be passed to relieve the tax burden on the farm and home; that all public officials consider seriously the "Pay as you go plan for public improvements"; that the Rural Credit Act be amended to give an extension of time in which borrowing farmers may meet their amortization payments; favoring the appointment of a committee headed by the Farm Bureau representative of the various taxpaying interests of the county for the purpose of studying county, school, and local expenditures, comparing them with those of other counties and taxing districts similarly situated and recommending to taxing authorities ways and means of effecting substantial reductions in the expenditure of public funds; strongly urging in the best interests of agriculture in Greene County, that the county agricultural agent and the home demonstration agent receive the support of all the agricultural interests of the county, and that our extension agents actively assist in the development of the programs of the present farm organizations within the county; endorsing the resolutions adopted by the American and Ohio Farm Bureau Federation; that agriculture occupies such an important economic place in national affairs that it is justified in asking an allocation to it by the Federal Radio Commission of such wave length or lengths, cleared channels, and power, as are necessary permanently to preserve its rightful interests on the air; that the trespass and hunting license laws today regarding hunting are not sufficient to protect the farmer from damage, and favoring a trespass law that will penalize the trespasser who enters the lands of another without permission and a hunters' license law that will provide for more easy identification by use of a larger license tag; opposing any effort to remove the quail from the songbird list; favoring a reduction of interest rates commensurate with basic price levels; that the constitution of the Farm Bureau be amended in order that directors shall be elected for a period of two years.

Lady directors at large were re-elected for the coming year as follows: Mrs. R. B. McKay, Mrs. Ernest Bradford and Mrs. E. S. Foult.

Ohio's college basketball teams are so numerous they always hog most of the spotlight, getting much of the attention and honor that would otherwise be bestowed upon scholastic quintets. Yet the high school youths continue their seasonal play, every thought being directed at the state championship finals in March.

The state tourney competition is where the scholastic cagers come into their own. This year the tournament finals will be staged at the Ohio State fairgrounds in Columbus on March 18 and 19. Prior to this six sectional events will be run off, eliminating the weaker contestants.

The semi-final competition in the Southwestern District will be preceded by various regional tournaments.

Xenia Central will compete in the preliminary round at Springfield March 4 and 5, along with Springfield, Bellefontaine, Greenville, Piqua, Sidney, Troy and Urbana, and none of these other schools in the Class A play should prove so much better than the Bucs.

At the same time the Montgomery County "A" schools, principally from Dayton, will battle it out in that city in the regional event.

The district semi-finals, to be played at Dayton March 11 and 12, at the fairgrounds coliseum, will bring together the schools left in the Class B play and the "survivors" of the regional meets at Springfield, Dayton and at Cincinnati, where Hamilton and Butler County teams clash in the preliminary rounds.

Greene County's two representative Class B court teams, those who finish first and second in the county tourney, will complete March 4 and 5 at Wilmington College, along with the champion quintets from Clinton, Fayette, Highland and Warren Counties.

Two other schools from this county, the Xenia O. S. and S. O. Home and Osborn Bath Twp., not being in the county supervised group, will enter the tourney play at Springfield, to which Champaign, Clark, Logan and Shelby Counties will send their champion cage teams.

Were it not for the fact that there would be a general inclination to concede the championship to Charles Zell in advance, this department might be persuaded to favor a movement for a first annual ping-pong tournament to decide the best ping-pong player in Xenia. In the event a method can be devised to bar Charlie from the competition, the above suggestion may be worthy of a second thought.

CALLED BY DEATH

George H. Andrews, 71, life-long resident of Xenia, died at his home, 803 E. Main St., Tuesday evening at 5:40 o'clock. He had been ill two weeks following a stroke of paralysis.

Mr. Andrews had spent his entire life in Xenia and had been employed by the Xenia water department twenty-nine years. He retired several years ago. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jennie King Andrews, to whom he was married in 1911. Two sisters, Mrs. Carrie Washington, Xenia and Miss Mary Andrews, Detroit, Mich., also survive. His parents, four brothers and two sisters preceded him in death.

Funeral services will be held at the home Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and burial will be made in Cherry Grove Cemetery.

A few friends very agreeably surprised Mrs. Cora Hawkins, in honor of her birthday Monday evening.

Mrs. Hawkins is confined to her room with a sprained ankle but is now improving.

Those present were Mesdames Virgill Maldon, Anna Lindsay, Mamie Mahews, Elizabeth Churchill, Victoria Smith, Pattie Smith, Carrie Jones, Fannie Thomas and Miss Ida McCann.

After a very delightful social evening they left wishing Mrs. Hawkins many more happy birthdays.

WILL CARRY ON

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—William Wrigley, Jr., died with his greatest wish unfulfilled—to win a world's series.

That burning ambition is one of the legacies he leaves his son, Philip K. Wrigley.

That Philip Wrigley would retain ownership of the Cubs, and would devote himself to the fulfillment of his father's legacy, appeared assured here today.

"Mr. Wrigley intends to retain ownership of the Cubs," I. A. Kirkman, his secretary, was reported to have said today. "He will exercise control to the same extent his father did."

Kirkman also said that William Veeck would continue as president of the club.

During the course of his talk, the navy air chief took occasion to point out that the National Guard is a vitally important unit, an endorsement considered timely in view of a present intensive drive to reorganize Xenia's National Guard company.

The crowded hall gave Mr. Greiner quite an ovation, Comander George Mumma declaring it the best talk of the kind given there in years.

A surprise was in store for the post when it was announced that David S. Ingalls the "flying secretary of the navy," candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, would be present to greet the members. Mr. Ingalls made a brief talk. Following Mr. Ingalls were former State Representative Earl Johnson, of Painesville, Herbert Mooney of Woodsfield and C. L. Darlington, Xenia, both past state commanders of the American Legion.

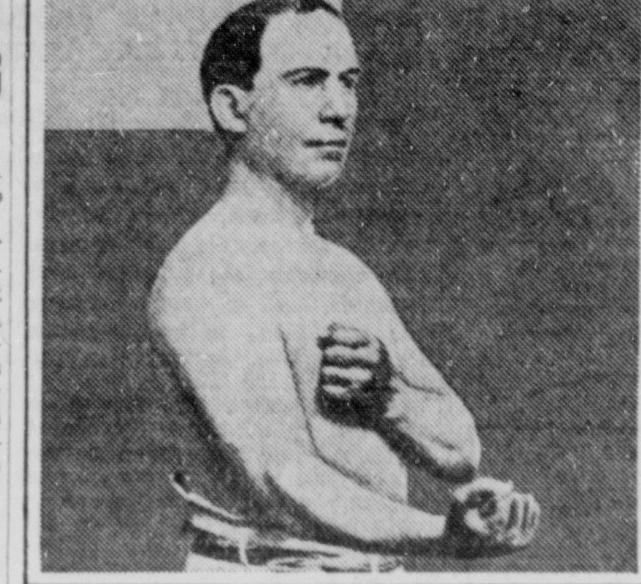

Col. H. S. Wygant, military instructor at Wilberforce University, acted as an official escort for the visiting dignitary on his visit to the Home. A delegation of members of the Kiwanis Club, presided and introduced Ingalls. The banquet, given under auspices of the Rotary and Kiwanis Club, was attended by 225 persons.

Music was furnished under the direction of J. E. Balmer, trades supervisor of the Home, who led group singing with Miss Helen Hurley at the piano. The girls' octette from the Home also sang. Mrs. George Pillsbury gave the invocation.

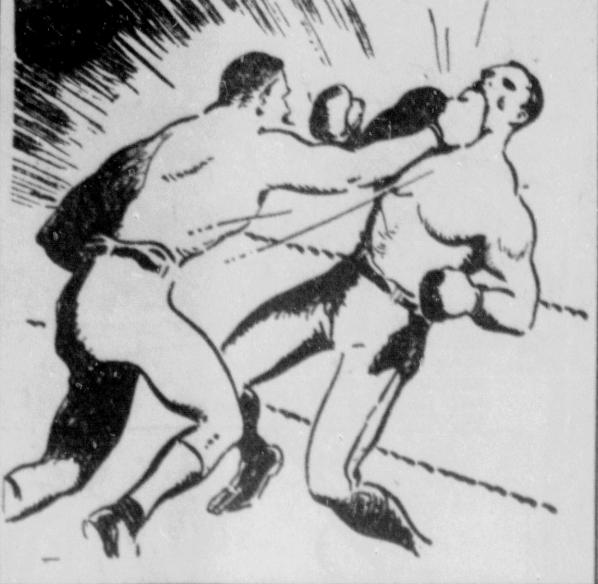

Seated at the speaker's table, besides the air chief and Mr. Rice, were Rep. Earl L. Johnson, Palmyra, O., who accompanied Mr. Ingalls to Xenia; Mrs. A. C. Messerger, representing the D. A. R.; Col. H. Rudolph, Cincinnati, commander of the 147th Regiment, O. N. G.; Col. Wygant, Mrs. Pillsbury, Commander Paul Halder, of Fooday Post; Warner Bigler, retired navy officer; and Mrs. Hazel Toms, head of the Legion auxiliary.

Following the banquet, which was served by Jacob Kany, Ingalls and Rep. Johnson went to Osborn, where both gave short talks before assembled Legionsmen of the twin villages. Ingalls returned to Columbus by motor late Tuesday night.

or major proportions occurs out of every 500,000 flights taken.

Illustrating naval economy, the assistant secretary spoke of the airplane-carrying ships which can load on eighty planes, run about forty-five miles an hour and send the planes off each carrying 50,000 pounds of explosives. "Then there is the new Akron," he continued. "It was built at a cost of about one-sixth of the cruiser ship and can scout over nine times the area."

The speaker also made the assertion that "army aviation in the United States is second to none in defensive ability, air mail has increased ten-fold in the last four years and passenger service is six-times as great."

The economic reason for national defense and maintaining of a strong navy is to "keep up the strength of trade and commerce upon which the industries of the United States depend," he argued, asserting that "our foreign commerce depends upon the army and navy and foreign commerce, in normal times, supports directly about 10 per cent of our population. More than $2,250,000 of our imports are in raw materials for our industries."

While the yacht was still in Spain, two of the men who manned her died strangely and a third jumped or was pushed to his death leaving Greiner and the one-eyed cook, indicating that the Spaniard's superstition may have been well-founded.

teen courses and each time another course was placed on the table Mr. Greiner tried to add it to his guests and wonder whether he was going to have enough cash.

The next day, as he checked from the hotel, the proprietor brought him a long list on paper that looked like a stock market report but which proved to be the bill. Mr. Greiner couldn't understand the Spanish figures so he asked:

"Well just how much does that amount to in United States money?" The answer was about $88. Mr. Greiner had been carrying about $250 in cash and "it was a grand and glorious feeling," he says.

It happened that Mr. Greiner had used for cook on his yacht a colored man who had only one eye. The Spaniard, Carego, when he got a look at the cook, blamed all their misfortunes at sea on this cook, declaring that no Spaniard would go to sea with a one-eyed cook and that this was the cause of all their trouble.

While the yacht was still in Spain, two of the men who manned her died strangely and a third jumped or was pushed to his death leaving Greiner and the one-eyed cook, indicating that the Spaniard's superstition may have been well-founded.

LANG FALCONS LOSE TO VISITORS; WEAK SHOOTING BLAMED

South Solon Erwin Coals Duplicate Former Victory

Inaccurate basket shooting proved so costly to the Lang Chevrole Falcons that the Erwin Coals of South Solon duplicated a previous victory over the Xenia quintet by defeating the Falcons in a return game, 34 to 29, before an unusually good crowd of fans at Central High gymnasium Tuesday night.

The Falcon cagers had an abundance of shots at the hoop but their luck was mostly bad, while the visiting team made its fewer attempts count. South Solon basketeteers sported a lead of 22 to 18 at the half.

A preliminary contest resulted in a 30 to 21 victory for Eddie Higgins' "Famous Five" over a Casarcreek quintet. Lineup:

REPORT TWO MORE AUTOS ARE STOLEN

While the owners were presumably attending a basketball game in the school gymnasium, two automobiles were stolen Tuesday night from in front of Central High School, although one was found abandoned several hours afterward, police said.

The autos reported stolen were both Chevrolet roadsters and were owned by Robert Schannon, R. R. 2, Xenia, and E. L. Mesecher, New Burlington. Schannon's car was found later on Bellbrook Ave., but the car belonging to Mesecher, bearing license number D27470, has not been located.

Smug Stars Of Long Ago, Now Stand And Watch Show

It may be a sign of advancing years that your correspondent is constantly intrigued over the question of what has become of the motion picture stars of yesterday—yesterday being a poetic form of expression for which the writer has a handsome gold-embossed life-time license hanging on the wall of his palatial office.

Thus, when we say "yesterday" in referring to the screen stars, we mean five, ten, fifteen—even twenty years ago. And so, since Wallace X. Rawles, of International News Service's Hollywood bureau furnishes us with some information on this subject, we can hardly wait to rush into print with it.

Jacqueline Logan is starring in English pictures and is a great favorite there. She is now home again. Jacqueline Logan is starring in English pictures and is a great favorite there. She is now home again. Jacqueline Logan is starring in English pictures and is a great favorite there. She is now home again.

Stuart Holmes of the patent-leather hair, the trick mustache and the oily, villainous manner and Theda Bara, the vampire who played with him in many pictures, are both in Hollywood. Many more are dead. These include Rudolph Valentino, Wallace Reed, Earle Williams, Olive Thomas, Alma Rubens, Robert Edeson, Louis Wolheim, Art Acord, Thomas Santchi, Harold Lockwood, Lon Chaney, Sidney Drew, Dustin Farnum, Larrey Simon, Arthur Johnson, Gladys Brockwell, Jeanne Eagels, William Russell, Barbara LaMarr, Mabel Normand, Robert Harron, Dorothy Mansfield and Ben Wilson.

All of which leaves this department still confused about the fate of June Caprice, Louise Glaum, Beverly Bayne (since she divorced Bushman), Myrtle Stedman, George Walsh, and others.

J. Warren Kerrigan lives in seclusion in his canyon home near Hollywood. William S. Hart, just turned 61, is on a ranch at Newhall, twenty-two miles from Hollywood. Harold Lloyd is said to have made twelve million dollars but still makes pictures. Charles Chaplin, after one sound picture, is vacationing abroad.

Mary Carr, the famous "mother" of the screen, has filed a petition in bankruptcy. So did Ralph and Vera Lewis, veteran character players. Flora Finch, co-star of the late John Bunny, plans a screen comeback. Ruth Stonehouse lives quietly with her husband, Phillip Hughes, in a large home near the studios.

Ruth Roland, serial girl, made millions in real estate. Betty Compson, who staged a successful comeback, also realized a fortune in realty. Carlyle Blackwell will attempt a film comeback. He has lived for years in England. Ethel Clayton is in a film comeback now. Roscoe Arbuckle, one-time comedian, is directing pictures under another name. Ella Hall works in an exclusive gown shop in Hollywood.

Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks have just spent $15,000 enlarging their home, Pickfair, in anticipation of visitors from abroad during the Olympic Games next summer. Marguerite Clark lives happily with her husband near New Orleans. Eugene O'Brien, Alice Joyce, Francis X. Bushman and Enid Markey now appear in stage plays.

Alice Terry is in France most of the time. Vaudeville claimed Chas. Ray, Blanche Sweet and a host of others. Viola Dana is the wife of Jimmy Thompson, Colorado Springs golf professional. Clara Kimball Young is in Hollywood and recently played a character role in a feature picture. Katherine MacDonalid, "The American Beauty" recently lived in the millionaire colony of Santa Barbara. She has recently divorced Christopher Holmes.

Olive Borden married a Pater-son, N. J., lawyer, Helen Holmes, another serial favorite, is married to a Sonora, Calif., rancher and Marjorie Rambeau, after a come-back, recently married a Florida business man and moved there.

Elaine Hammerstein is married and lives in Hollywood. Seena Owen is also in Hollywood but not in pictures. Enid Bennett still plays parts in the movies. Edith Storey runs a chicken farm on Long Island. Billie Burke is now Mrs. Florenz Ziegfeld and appears occasionally on the stage. May McAvoy and Florence Vidor are married and live in Hollywood.

Many of the film stars of former years (so Rawles tells us) are millionaires. Some are playing small parts in current pictures. Most of the celebrities of fifteen to twenty years ago live in retirement in Hollywood or its suburbs and occasionally revel with the players whose names now are in electric lights.

ANTIOCH PLAYERS TO GIVE SHAW PLAY

"Candida," by George Bernard Shaw, will be presented by the Antioch College Players Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock at the Yellow Springs Opera House. This is the fourth of Shaw's plays to be produced by the Antioch Players in three seasons and is said to rank above any of the following previous productions: "Misalliance," "Androcles and the Lion," and "You Never Can Tell."

"Candida" was written by Shaw in 1895 and the scene is laid in England. The story concerns the struggle between a staid, self-satisfied, practical minister and his protege, an idealistic, poetic, nervous young nobleman, for the former's wife whom the latter thinks is misunderstood and undervalued by her husband. The play is a comedy but is said to contain many dramatic instances. The cast is rehearsing under the direction of B. H. Pillard.

ANTIOCH PLAYERS TO GIVE SHAW PLAY

"Candida," by George Bernard Shaw, will be presented by the Antioch College Players Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock at the Yellow Springs Opera House. This is the fourth of Shaw's plays to be produced by the Antioch Players in three seasons and is said to rank above any of the following previous productions: "Misalliance," "Androcles and the Lion," and "You Never Can Tell."

"Candida" was written by Shaw in 1893 and the scene is laid in England. The story concerns the struggle between a staid, self-satisfied, practical minister and his protege, an idealistic, poetic, nervous young nobleman, for the former's wife whom the latter thinks is misunderstood and undervalued by her husband. The play is a comedy but is said to contain many dramatic instances. The cast is rehearsing under the direction of B. H. Pillard.

Tribute to father from daughters:

Father and pal—even though this transformation has taken place, death has no power to take away our deepest treasures. His personality and our associations and precious memories all that has made our lives together shall always remain untouched forever more. Our comfort is full and complete. We have the joy of knowing that he is beyond the touch of pain, disappointment, or any of life's tragedies. He is in God's keeping, we shall ask no better. Kindness not only to human beings, but to animals, has been a marked characteristic throughout his life. And most of all respect for every man's person regardless of race. His life was summed up by saying "He who lives most and serves best has no regrets."

NAT SHILKRET and his 35-piece orchestra

For this Chesterfield Program, Mr. Shilkret has assembled and will personally conduct an orchestra of exceptional range and color. Mr. Shilkret's musical background is impressive—with the Russian Symphony Orchestra, the New York Philharmonic, and as organizer and director of the Victor Salon Orchestra, where his arrangements and recordings of lighter music proved immensely popular.

COAST-TO-COAST OVER THE COLUMBIA NETWORK

Six nights a week: 10:30-10:45 (Eastern Standard Time.) The rich baritone of Alex Gray, romantic star of stage and screen...a large and splendidly-balanced orchestra of first rank, drawing from all that is tuneful in today's music. This is one of radio's "high spots."

ALEX GRAY, popular soloist

"How he can sing!" is the universal comment. A rising star of musical comedy stage and screen, and with rare gifts of personality and voice, Mr. Gray's stirring baritone is ideal for radio and for the romantic and colorful ballads which he sings so well. An addition to radio's first-line artists, and an important figure in "Music that Satisfies."
